

Belt Tying Procedure

The belt is tied in a square knot. If it's your first try make sure that your jacket ties have been properly secured first (1,2,3). After you have folded the belt in half to determine the center (4), place the centerpoint at the front of your waist (5). Then carry each end around the back of your body (6) then continue the ends to the front (7), and tie the knot as shown (8), and draw the overlapping ends of the belt up between the jacket and the belt (9) and complete the knot as shown (9,10). It is considered a matter of pride for the ends of the belt to be of equal length after the square knot is neatly tied (11,12).
